Pioneer Engineer

Many of our citizens will remember Milton Stahl, who was engineer on the Mo. Pac. passenger passing Marshall for thirty years. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Gentry, who were visiting here Saturday handed us the following clipping from the Tipton Times, which gives the particulars:

Milton Stahl, who for thirty consecutive years worked in the capacity as engineer on the Boonville Versailles branch of the Missouri Pacific making his first run Oct. 20, 1879, and his last run February 7, 1910, being compelled to retire from service on account of ailing health, lingered along for more than a year, when he passed peacefully away at his home in this city at 12:05 o'clock Wednesday morning August 10, 1910 at the age of 64 years.

Mr. Stahl was born and reared in Moersburg, Pa. He was twice married. His first wife died in Pennsylvania several years ago, leaving one daughter, Mrs. John H. Gentry, of St. Joseph, Mo., who, with his second wife, survives. Besides these two brothers and two sisters residing in Pennsylvania, are left to mourn their loss.

Mr. Stahl united with the Methodist church while a resident of Marshall, Mo., several years ago under the pastorate of Rev. W. F. Jones, now of Sedalia, who will assist Rev. Asdale in the funeral services at the Presbyterian church at 2 o'clock p. m. today. The burial will be made in the Odd Fellows cemetery under the auspices of the B. of L. E. and Improved Order of Red Men, of which deceased was an honored member.

Mr. Stahl was a good man, ever ready to do a kind act for his fellowman. He bore his long suffering with patience and gave evidence of due preparation in the last moments of his life.

George Royar Obituary

Great was the shock of our people to hear of the sudden death of George Royar on Saturday, August 13 at about 7 p. m. at his home in the suburbs of Miami.

Since the death of his wife a little over a year ago he had lived a most lonely and sad life in his quiet little home with his only child a little boy of eight years. At the time of Mr. Royar's death the little son was in Kansas City visiting and Mr. Royar though his work was on his farm a few miles away was at home alone all day Saturday, the last day on earth for him. Just how long he had been ill no one will ever know. Many in passing by claim to have heard cries and moans of distress yet passed on by, little dreaming that they came from a human being in the very throes of death with no one to lay on a soothing hand or give him a cooling drink. At length Mr. Rodgers and Mr. Cundiff heard the groans of pain and heeded them enough as to alight and enter.

There lay the unfortunate man writhing in intense agony begging for water. A few drops were given him when he at once went into violent convulsions, one after another, each one harder than the one before. Three physicians came hurriedly and did all in the power of man to alleviate the horrible sufferings of their fellow citizen but to no avail. It required the strength of three men to hold him in bed. When friends drew near and a spasm would pass off he would piteously beg for something to be done to save his life and express a wish that they had come sooner.

His sufferings never for a moment yielded to medical skill but grew harder each moment until death came as a blessing and his agony was over.

George W. Royar was born in Miami on July 4th 1874. One child George P., his aged parents, five sisters and four brothers survive him. His beloved wife who was Miss Zella D. Walden died a year ago and since then Mr. Royar has been sad and lonely and at times not caring to live. As a husband and father he was affectionate and considerate, as a son and brother he was most dutiful and indulgent. As the community knew him he was easy, quiet and unassuming, always wearing a smile and speaking in a low gentle tone.

His little boy had gone to Kansas City a few weeks before to visit relatives and was stricken with fever and the father was kept in ignorance of it, until on this eventful day it was considered best to call him to the little boys bedside, and when a kind friend was calling for the boys father to come a sadder end was being made for the boy to be brought to Miami that father was dead.

Rev. Jones of the Christian church presided over the remains on Sunday afternoon and followed by many sorrowing, weeping friends his body was laid to rest in the city cemetery by the side of his wife of whom he was so fond. Besides Mr. Royar's little son who is too ill to hear the sad news, his brother Philip who is in a Chicago hospital will be kept in ignorance of the fact for awhile. B.

Attended Quantrell Reunion.

J. C. Irvine attended a reunion of the Quantrell band in Jackson county Friday and Saturday. He was a member of this well-known band and like the rest of them is proud of it.

There are ninety-three survivors of the Quantrell band, according to the roster of Warren Welch, secretary of the organization. It has never been possible to get them all together. "You see, the boys scattered after we came back from Lawrence," one of them said confidentially. "A lot of them lit out for the Smi Hills and ain't come out of them since."

This band had a total enrollment of 374 but everyone of them was a "terror on wheels," according to their latest accounts, and the total number of bluecoats they slew must have run into the millions. Many deeds of valor were related by those present.

Cole Younger evidently felt some delicacy in going into details of his part in the raid. He admitted he took a cabbage that didn't belong to him from a Kansan's garden. The farmer's wife shook her fist at him and said she hoped it would give him the colic. Mr. Younger's recollection was that it did that very thing. He said he had thirteen bullets in his body at the present time, and admitted that he didn't get them all in the service of the Confederacy. Further than that he said little of his life except that twenty-five years of it had been spent in the Minnesota state prison. Cole branched off from his lecture to pay a compliment to the Kansas insurgents and The Star. "I'm no friend of The Star, and The Star's no friend of mine," he said, "but I want to tell you folks that there's a newspaper that's been printing some real sense lately. I'm a Democrat."

"So are we," yelled the Quantrell men.
"Yes, I know you are; but you keep your eye on Bristow and that red-headed fellow—what's his name—Murdock—you keep your eyes on them and maybe you'll learn something that it won't hurt Democrats to know."

Airship at State Fair

The Directors of the State Fair have contracted with the Wright Company, of Dayton, Ohio, for Wright Brothers' aeroplane exhibitions every day during the State Fair, October 1 to 7. Wright Bros were the first to demonstrate that successful air trips could be made with a heavier than air machine. The flight each day will not be merely a few hundred feet, or a few thousand feet, straight away flights, but a flight will consist of circling the mile track, at least once during each day's exhibition. This will give all visitors at the Fair an opportunity of seeing a machine flying at close range. Mr. Brookins, operating a Wright Machine, at Indianapolis, Indiana, during the second week in June broke the world's record for height, reaching an altitude of over 4,300 feet. Sensational flights are promised at the State Fair the first week in October.

Telepost Inaugurated

Kansas City, Mo., August 10th, 1910—With interesting ceremonies the Telepost system of automatic telegraphy was formally inaugurated today between this city and St. Louis, Chicago, Springfield, Ill., Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Louisville and Sedalia, Mo.

Upon the invitation of President H. Lee Sellers of the company, a large number of prominent city officials and representative business men witnessed the inauguration of the service which marks the advent of an era of lower priced telegraphy for Western Missouri and Kansas.

The first message was one from Mayor Brown of this city to Mayor Kreisman of St. Louis, felicitating him upon the establishment of this new medium of communication between the two cities. In response Mayor Kreisman sent a message reciprocating the friendly sentiment of the Kansas City Executive.

This was followed by the exchange of congratulatory messages from President W. T. Bland and Secretary E. M. Clendening of the Kansas City Commercial Club to similar commercial organizations in all of the cities reached by Telepost from Kansas City. To these the latter replied expressing their gratification over the cementing of this new bond between the cities of the Middle West.

The assembled guests at the Delaware Street office of the company watched the preparation of the messages on the perforating machines and their transmission at a speed of 1500 words a minute with keen interest. The new line will be opened for the use of the public tomorrow. From Kansas City the next step in the westward extension of the automatic system will be Omaha, Nebraska, by way of St. Joseph, Mo. which is said will be ready for operation in about six weeks.

Signals of Distress

Marshall People Should Know How to Read and Heed Them.

Sick kidneys give many signals of distress.

Backache is constant day and night.

Headaches and dizzy spells are frequent.

The weakened kidneys need quick help.

Don't delay! Use a special kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, backache and urinary disorders.

Marshall evidently proves this statement.

Mrs. Dick Estes, 379 W. Boyd St., Marshall, Mo., says: "I have never taken Doan's Kidney Pills myself but I know that they are a splendid remedy for kidney trouble and backache. Doan's Kidney Pills has been used by my relatives with such good results that I do not hesitate to give them my highest endorsement."
